

New Prospectus

Our new prospectus is now available on our website. Although this is primarily aimed at parents whose children are not yet at the school, I thought I would point out that it is available as it does summarise very well all that goes on in the school.

There is also a new Sixth Form Prospectus and this too is available to view on the website.

Open Evening Thanks

Thank you to everyone who was involved in the Open Evening on Tuesday. We were again extremely busy with a very high turnout. I had only that afternoon been to a meeting with other headteachers to discuss planning further expansion of the city schools as we are due to be short of places again in about three years' time. As that point nears it is likely that more and more schools will be filled with parents who name them as their First Choice so the importance of making the right decision is clear – and Open Evenings are a big part of this choice.

Sixth Form Open Evening

The next significant event in our diary is this event for Year 11 students, which is on Tuesday week, 17 October. This is open to all Year 11 students, not just our own, so please pass the word. After an introductory talk we will have all the subjects available for students and parents to speak to; it is important to find out what each course entails to see whether or not it is right for you. Unlike GCSE, there are entry requirements for courses and so part of the discussion will be about what your predicted grades are for next summer. We have this event earlier than we used to as we found it helped focus the students on which subjects they need to get better grades in, and better to do that before it is too late.

Another key difference to GCSE is that we will not run courses that do not have enough applications, although we will continue to offer some courses in conjunction with King's school.

Sixth Form Classics Visit to Cambridge University

Last week the Year 12 and 13 Classicists visited the Classics Faculty at Cambridge University for a Sixth form conference. Students heard lectures on topics as varied as the cultural context of Homer's epics, ghosts in Virgil's Aeneid, Greek Art and Roman Imperial Image. There was also the opportunity to spend some time looking round the historic city centre, which included a visit to Clare College. Students found this day to be informative and enjoyable; a good way to begin the year's study.
